

Maury Island Marine Park

Saturday, July 13th 2019, 10am-1pm

Day of Event Contact – Lina Rose, work cell (206) 491-5014

King County Parks

King County's award-winning Parks and Recreation system consists of 200 parks, 175 miles of regional trails, and 28,000 acres of open space. In our parks, you'll find ballfields and playgrounds as well as lush forests, quiet meadows, and many other Pacific Northwest ecosystems.

Whale Scout

Whale Scout leads the public in land-based whale watching experiences. They channel people's interest and passion about whales into on the ground salmon habitat restoration projects, protecting the primary food source of struggling orcas in Puget Sound.

Why Your Volunteer Service is Important

Forests and shorelines need to have diversity in order to be healthy and thrive. When forests and shorelines are thriving, they can provide many benefits to our community like filtering pollution, mitigating erosion and storm damage, providing habitat for wildlife, and creating green spaces where people can connect with the outdoors.

What to Expect

The event will begin with a discussion that includes information about King County Parks, Whale Scout, and the park that you are serving in. We will supply gloves, a jug of water, light snacks, all instructions, and tools. Please plan to arrive on time for the start of the event (we can adjust based on updated ferry schedules) and allow extra time to find parking.

The plan for the day is to help protect this wonderful marine park by picking up trash that has collected on the beach, particularly after the 4th of July holiday.

Our events run rain or shine. In the event of hazardous weather, the King County staff member leading your project will be in contact via email the morning of the project. Plan to check your email before you leave for the event to ensure you receive any updates. If you are a contact for a group coming out to volunteer, please ensure that you have set up a way to contact your group members the morning of the event if needed.
